

The Power of Plants

We're excited to partner with University of Oregon's Museum of Natural and Cultural History to bring you The Power of Plants—a family program that will inspire learning and tons of hands-on fun. Join us as we celebrate plants through experiments, crafts, and more!

Here's how it works. Beginning July 1, families can stop by Weston Library to pick up a free Home Activity Kit. These will be available while supplies last. We will post a link to a fun, pre-recorded video presentation with a lively introduction to the subject, a visit with topic experts, and a review of the materials and activities in the Home Activity Kits. This video is provided to you as a Vimeo link (like YouTube, but without the ads) and will be posted to our library Facebook page for your access. Or send us an email to get the link. We will also download the video to a few thumb drives for use by families at home without internet access. There is not a time limit or a limit to how many times the program can be used.

The Power of Plants is just one part of our Summer Reading Program 2021. Stop in at the Library to learn more and find out how your kids can participate in this year's fun and improve reading skills.

Fresh Air Storytime

We are taking Storytime outdoors! Beginning July 23 and continuing through August, the library will be hosting storytime outside in the library yard at 10:00 am on Fridays. This is our usual time slot for preschool storytime, but during the summer weeks the offerings will be geared to include school-age kids as well. No registration is necessary; preschoolers should bring along a parent. Join us on the lawn to share our favorite books!

7/6 Library Board Mtg

5 pm (Library)

7/22 Novel Readers

5 pm (Library)

7/9 & 7/16 Friday

Summer Reading

Activities 1 pm

(Weston Park)

7/23 & 7/30

Storytime 10 am

(Library)

New at the Library

China, fiction by Edward Rutherford

Sooley, fiction by John Grisham

Golden Girl, fiction by Elin Hilderbrand

The Last Green Valley, fiction by Mark Sullivan

Firelight: Amulet #7, children's fiction by Kazu Kibuishi

New Kid, children's fiction by Jerry Craft